Frequently Asked Questions about OWL Trainings

I'm very busy, do I really need to be at the training from Friday until Sunday afternoon?

Yes, you do. The entire time is needed to get familiar with the curricula, and to cover all the material that you need to teach Our Whole Lives. These weekend workshops can be transformative, spiritual experiences, and well worth the time!

Do I need to buy both the 7-9 and 10-12 Curriculum if I'm only teaching one of the courses?

It is ideal if you have both curricula if you ever plan on teaching both courses. They are expensive, so try to borrow copies if necessary, or have your congregation purchase them.

Can I get the curriculum at the very last minute?

No, unless you can find someone to loan you copies. They take a week or two to order from the UUA bookstore, so plan ahead. You will need to be familiar with the curricula before the training.

Do I have to come with a training partner?

Having a training partner is ideal, but not required.

Do you offer childcare?

This training is intense, and the hours too long to accommodate children. To participate, you will need to arrange for someone to care for your children.

Can I sign up for the training and drop out at the last minute?

Refunds can probably be arranged in case of emergency, however, we can't guarantee refunds after July 20 because there are minimum costs associated with the training.

Can I participate in the training if I am not associated with a congregation?

Preference will be given to participants from the Pacific Central District who plan on teaching in congregations; however, if space is available, others may register.

Why are these trainings SO EXPENSIVE?

The training fee includes all meals, hospitality, and handouts. Your trainers attend intensive week-long trainings in Boston, and are compensated by the district.
